

IN THE ABSTRACT:

Please replace the abstract with the following.

-- A method for providing a remembered set involves maintaining the remembered set as a bag, identifying when an event occurs, and transforming the remembered set into a set when the event occurs. The step of transforming includes obtaining a plurality of thread local store buffers and flushing the thread local store buffers to a global store buffer. --